

Electric dreams

This 100% energy efficient electric water-filled radiator from Easy Heat looks just like a conventional, double panelled radiator but hides an internal mini boiler and pump which transforms each one into a self-contained central heating system. Wall mounted on brackets supplied and plugged into any 13 amp socket, this is a heating system with no pipe work or boiler to install and doesn't need bleeding, topping up or servicing.

Priced at around £380.

Tropical heat

The natural appeal of stone is the inspiration for the Aeon Collection's newest designer radiator. Marbella reflects the increasing popularity of stone in contemporary homes using this erstwhile cool material for room heating. Specially selected pieces of tactile, polished or matt natural stone are interspersed with horizontal belts of mirror polished or brushed matt stainless steel to create a sculptural design of contrasting materials.
